I wonder why we have rules...

We have rules because we need to have some kind of order. If we didn't have rules the world would be a mess. We follows rules to stay safe and in control. Rules set limits. Some people don't follow rules because they don't understand why rules are made. If everyone followed the rules, the jail would be empty. If everyone followed the rules, we wouldn't need police. Children should rally follow rules in order to grow up safe and strong. Rules are necessary.

I wonder why we yawn...

No one knows what causes us to yawn. You yawn when you are tired or bored. Sometimes you yawn just because someone nearby has yawned. Even reading about yawn can make you yawn. When you exercise, you do not yawn, and you never yawn when you are angry or exited. Some yawns are probably caused by your body's need for extra oxygen. A big yawn brings extra oxygen in to your body. But, the need for oxygen does not explain why yawns are contagious.
