I wonder why we can change the sound of our voices...

The larynx in your throat has strings like a musical instrument, called vocal cord. When you take in air, they vibrate and can make different sounds. When the strings are loose, your voice sounds low.

I wonder why I have bones...

Bones give people shape. Bones store minerals, make blood cells, and help me grow straight. I think bones are important.

I wonder why my teeth fall out...

Baby teeth fall out to make room for adult teeth which are bigger. As I grow bigger, my teeth need to change too. When I am 18, I will probably have all of adult teeth.
